

GERMANS WAVING ON MAIN LINE OF ATTACK

Heavy Reinforcements to Support Their Precarious Position

DEMOCRATIC STATE CANDIDATES HOLD THEIR FIRST BIG RALLY IN TONOPAH

With the aid of the Tonopah Military band the contingent of Democrats running on the state ticket succeeded in filling Miners' Union hall last evening and entertaining the audience to a late hour.

Alexander Dewar, who has some reputation as an entertainer, broke the ice by introducing Hon. William Forman, candidate for judge of the fifth judicial district, as chairman of the meeting. Mr. Forman accepted the office with a neat speech in which he affirmed his desire to serve the people of Nye county on the bench, and assuring every citizen, irrespective of party affiliation, that, if elected, he would not be the judge of a party, but a judge of the whole people. The chairman had the good sense not to detain the eager masses who wanted to hear something from the men from up state and soon presented them.

Emmett Boyle, candidate for governor, went right to bat with an array of statistics that have become familiar since his acceptance of the party nomination. Mr. Boyle dealt with revenue and disbursements and urged greater economy on the people if they wished to curb the rapacity of the lawmakers who had a disregard for economy when it came to making appropriations. To regulate this abuse he suggested the right veto which he promised to do as soon as he succeeded in his ambition to be the next governor of Nevada.

Ben. W. Coleman, of White Pine county, father of the "Corrupt Politics" act which keeps the press and prohibits free speech, restricts the right of criticism and stifles protest against a candidacy, took the floor. He appeared nettled at remarks credited to Judge R. F. Currier, his opponent, who alleged he had written letters to Republicans asking them to register as Democrats that they might vote for his nomination. He admitted having written to many friends, but denied that many of his letters were of the tone described or that any such implication could be attached to them. He thought the letters had been distorted and their meaning misconstrued. He said he was willing to place his judgment beside that of any other incumbent of the bench, as in his experience he never had more than one case reversed by a higher court.

Joe Farnsworth was the most candid of all. He said he was not a speaker and there fore would not compete with the able gentlemen on the state for the evening. He told a couple of good stories and sat down after urging his hearers to vote for him in November as he really wanted to go back to the office of public printer.

Ed. Malley very frankly appealed to his admirers at the outset by asking them to roll up a good vote for him in Nye county and the town of Tonopah. If his friends did not stand back of him in the state campaign he would prefer not to have the job at all. If he did not get the support of his home people who knew him so well he could not expect others to show any enthusiasm for his candidacy. He was willing to abide by his local administration and, if any one harkened to damaging reports, all they had to do was to call at the courthouse and make a personal inspection of his books and all accounts from the date when he took the office.

The band played "Auld Lang Syne" and the crowd cheered vociferously.

Comrade Dutton, who is in the pay of the Indian Bureau, wrapped himself metaphorically in the American flag and indulged in a long apostrophe to the shades of Jackson while symbolizing Wilson as the greatest statesman produced in American history. He might have made an exception in the case of Franklin K. Lane, but he did not know what the secretary of the interior might think of an employee taking an active part in politics.

John E. Bray devoted a long rambling discourse to an analysis of certain statements about his administration, taking special exception to the insinuation that he was an old fogey. This hurt him and he did not spare the feelings of his audience in expressing the deep anguish that raged his soul when he realized that the people of the state which he had served so long had criticized his methods.

Leonard Fowler, candidate for congress, spoke along strictly party lines which took him away from the beaten path of state politics, as he preferred to descend on the overshadowing eminence of Woodrow Wilson and his policies, which he hoped would see him in the front rank of the next congress. He stood pat for tariff reform, which he said was the greatest blessing conferred on the American people, and a relief to the consumer from the oppression of the trusts. He also spoke of the currency bill as a measure which should be applauded, but did not attempt to defend the administration from nursing the rag baby of ship-plaster currency by standing for an unlimited issue of fiat money.

This brought the meeting to a close, the band played the national anthem and the crowd filed out.

ANTWERP TOTTERING BUT MAY BE SAVED

(By International News Service.)

OSTEND, Oct. 8.—Fierce fighting has been in progress for three days around Lille. Reports state the German cavalry lost 2,000 men in an attempt to take Lille, but thus far they have been unsuccessful. The French succeeded in getting a large force into that town by a night dash and have held it against every attack. The Germans have occupied the region about Turecoing and Roubaix, north of Lille, where they brought up large forces of infantry moving behind a screen of cavalry. Reports here state large reinforcements have arrived in Antwerp. Belief is expressed by Belgian officials that this will enable Antwerp to hold out.

ANNUAL PROPHECY OF A BASEBALL FAN

MYSTERIOUS BROOKIE GIVES PUBLIC BENEFIT OF HIS PSYCHIC GENIUS.

A. R. Brooke, local authority on things baseball, whose prophecy concerning last year's world's series earned him the title "Mysterious Brookie," now emerges from his shell with the following dope on the approaching Athletics-Braves series. Brookie, realizing the uncanny nature of his gift, could not be bribed into laying any bets. He shudders at the prospect of using his supernatural advantage over his fellow man for his own gain. In witness of which he has but to point to his forecasts of last year. Here she goes for 1914:

Philadelphia wins series by taking four out of first five games. First game, Philadelphia; second game, Philadelphia; third game, Boston; fourth game, Philadelphia; fifth game, Philadelphia.

Bender, Plank and Bressler will pitch for Athletics, while James will take the box for the Braves' single victory. Bender will put over the only shut-out of the series.

Baker will make no home runs.

The pitchers on both teams are about a stand-off, but it is the mechanical work of the Athletics' infield that is going to cop the series. Every will do wonders, but all his ability will avail little, especially with Smith on the bench.

On paper the Athletics look 2 to 1 favorites.

TONOGOLD IS NAME OF NEW TOWNSITE

SALE BEGINS SUNDAY MORNING AT TEN O'CLOCK PROMPTLY.

Tonogold is the euphonious designation the townsites established at the gold camp in the newly discovered gold belt four miles north of the Tonopah post office. The name is very expressive, especially when it is known the camp first came into prominence by the shipment of a ton of gold bearing quartz gathered from the surface which yielded the owner $64 after paying all charges. The Tonogold townsites company has been incorporated and E. E. Bertram appointed agent and manager.

The plat of the townsites is between the site of the original discovery and the Sorrenson ground, lying in a slightly sloping formation that lends itself nicely to the location of a good sized town which can be easily drained so that no trouble will occur from the gathering of storm waters. A custom water tank is only half a mile away and the main line of the Tonopah Water company runs within easy reach of the townsites.

The sale opens Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

WEST END ATTACHED BY JIM BUTLER FOR SUM OF $1,500,000 INVOLVED IN SUIT

An attachment for $1,500,000 against the West End Consolidated Mining company, on application of the Tonopah Jim Butler Mining company, an Arizona corporation, was given Sheriff Malley to serve this afternoon. The attachment was to cover the value of 25,000 tons of ore alleged to have been taken from the West End-MacNamara ledge in the Eureka and Curtis claims. The value of this ore is estimated at $500,000 and, with exemplary damages allowed under the statute would involve a possible judgment for $1,500,000. The attachment was accompanied by a cash bond of $5,000 furnished by the Jim Butler.

This sets at rest all optimistic reports of a pending settlement between the companies and indicates a further prolongation of the litigation. The next move will be for the defendant company to apply to have the attachment dissolved. This will force the speedy hearing of the case on its merits and in the meantime the district court will be asked to modify the attachment so as not to interfere with the operation of the property.

No reason for the attachment was assigned by Mr. J. H. Evans, who is associated with Hugh H. Brown as local attorneys for the plaintiff corporation and who is the only one of the attorneys connected with the case who is in Tonopah.

On the other hand Horatio Alling, of the West End staff, arrived from San Francisco this morning and, when apprised of the suit, instantly took steps to ascertain the cause for the sudden development.

It is stated the authority for the attachment was an order from Clyde Heller and Curtis Lindsey in San Francisco following the visit of the senior counsel of the Butler side to Tonopah on October 3rd.

The attachment was served by Deputy Walker at 2:30 o'clock.
